

Friday 13th October

This week, the children in Millward Class spent a brilliant day immersing themselves in their topic all about the Stone Age. They created caves and even tried cave painting by torchlight using the pigments from foraged plants and berries- this I am sure will be a day to remember.

Dickens Class went out into Corsham to look at some of the historical buildings, produced impressive sketches and compared them to modern day houses and Fox Class had their families visit them in school for their My Family Wow Morning.

Last week, Mason Class went to visit the stones at Avebury and have been inspired by their visit writing recounts and creating persuasive leaflets of their memorable day.

It is all these profound learning opportunities that bring our curriculum to life and empower our young learners to be inquisitive about the world around them.

We held our parents' evenings this week; it was wonderful to share your child's learning with you and celebrate their successes and the next steps in their learning journeys.

Please do check out our website...there is now new page in the parent section with the title 'Cost of living support', where you will find some useful websites and contacts.

Wishing all our families a lovely weekend, I am off to pack my bag and get some rest, ready for PGL on Monday!
