Friday 6th November

A new term always starts with an exciting new topic for every class, and this term there is plenty to inspire curiosity and learning across the school. In science, Fox Class are exploring, investigating 'what can a boat be made out of?' Dickens Class are learning all about the human body, including body parts, healthy lifestyles, balanced diets and our five senses. Mason Class are investigating how we see and hear. Millward Class are learning about forces, including gravity, magnets, friction, air resistance and drag, while Turner Class are exploring space and the solar system, learning about the Earth, Moon and Sun and how they move in relation to one another.

We are particularly proud that Millward Class recently took part in a live STEM lesson run by Siemens as part of an ambitious attempt to deliver the largest science lesson ever held in the UK. It was a fantastic opportunity for the children to join many other young scientists from across the country and be part of a truly inspiring event.

To find out more information, please visit our website and explore the class pages. Knowledge organisers, termly overviews and homework activities are all available to view.

Wishing you all a wonderful weekend and, if you are heading to a firework display, stay safe and have a fantastic time.
